

Cases Argued At Special Term Here Saturday

Mr. Elmer Lund of Esopus Seeks Temporary Alimony of $25 a Week—Plaintiff Seeks to Have Verdict Set Aside—Other Actions.

Application for temporary alimony of $25 a week and counsel fees amounting to $400 pending trial of separation action was argued in special term Saturday before Judge McNamee. Frank T. Murray appeared for Mrs. Elmer Lund of Esopus and asked the court to grant temporary alimony in that amount. He stated the Lunds had resided apart for several years and for a time Mr. Lund had paid $25 a week toward the support of his family. Later he ceased to pay under an oral agreement and a court order was made demanding payment of the same. He paid for a time and then failed to make regular payments and as a result the surety company had paid. Now the payments were again behind and he sought the court's power to compel payment. Mr. Murray said Lund was employed as a carpenter at Larchmont and earned an average of $75 a week. The action for separation is brought on the grounds of non-support and cruelty. The oral agreement was made in 1923 according to Mr. Lund's attorney who opposed the action. For nine years they have resided apart. It is the contention of the defendant that he has paid regularly each week and that he had money order receipts to show for payments made.

Mr. Murray was unable to give a detailed account of payments received and an adjournment was taken in the case until June 21 at Hudson in order to give him an opportunity to submit a schedule of payments which Mrs. Lund alleged she has received.

Reserve Decision.

Decision was reserved on the application of Abraham Blument, stockholder and director of the Blument Merchandising Company, for a voluntary dissolution of the company. Arthur B. Ewig for petitioner and F. W. Brooks in opposition.

Application for court action to set aside a verdict rendered by a jury last week in an action brought by the Hood Rubber Products Company against Ellenville Battery & Tire Company was adjourned until Tuesday at 2 o'clock. LeRoy Lounsbury, who appeared for the defendant was present in court but Manuel Dittenheimer was unable to be present on account of illness. The jury rendered a verdict of no cause of action and application was made by plaintiff to set aside the verdict. The action grew out of the sale of a bill of tires to the defendant. The tires were sold to customers but the defendant alleges the tires were of inferior quality and were returned. An action was brought by the manufacturers to recover the amount of the bill of goods and the defendants then brought a counterclaim for damages in the sum of $1,000, claiming they had been damaged that amount by reason of the poor quality of the merchandise.

George Wingate, a negro brickyard worker, arrested for public intoxication on Broadway on Sunday afternoon, was fined $5.

Abraham Brown, arrested for public intoxication on Ann street on Sunday, was sentenced to ten days in jail, but serving sentence was suspended. He said he was married and had four children.

Clinton W. Thomas of Lake Hill, arrested at the West Shore station for public intoxication on Sunday, was fined $5.

Nathan Rubin of New York City, arrested for speeding, gave bail for his appearance in court on June 5.

HEALTH OFFICERS CONGRATULATE DR. RYMPH

Dr. I. G. Rymph of Bloomington, health officer of the town of Roseville, who has been holding T. A. Rymphs at St. Peter's Hall, Roseville, and who will hold further clinics on June 6, has received letters of commendation from Dr. Frank W. Laidlaw, state health officer, and Mrs. Laidlaw, state nurse. These letters express the appreciation of the state health authorities over the success of the clinics so far held and also the fact that the clinics will be continued until all children in the town are administered the diphtheria toxin.

Steven B. Ayres Dies In Hospital

Well Known New Yorker Who Had Summer Home in Woodstock Dies in New York—Sudden Weather Changes Hastened Death.

Steven Beckwith Ayres, Representative in Congress of the Eighteenth New York District in 1911-13, and retired real estate operator, died in his sixty-eighth year on Saturday night at the Park West Hospital, 170 West Seventy-sixth street, New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Ayres had come up from their residence in Clearwater, Fla., early last month and gone to their summer home at Woodstock. Last Tuesday Mr. Ayres returned to New York to spend a few days at the City Club and was taken ill on Friday. Friends took him to the hospital. He died in his sleep Saturday night. Mrs. Ayres said that while his health had been failing for several years, death probably had been hastened by the sudden changes in weather last week.

Funeral services will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the funeral home, Broadway at Sixty-sixth street.

Mr. Ayres was born in Fort Dodge, Iowa, on October 27, 1861, son of Stephen and Artemisia Dunlap Ayres. He entered Syracuse University with the class of 1882 and received the degree of A. B. in 1893.

In 1887 he commenced real estate operations in New York City, developing important holdings in Westchester county and New Jersey as head of the S. B. Ayres Company. He was also in the advertising business for a time, with the Ayres Advertising Company, at 1123 Broadway.

Elected to Congress.

His nomination as Representative in 1910 came as a surprise to politicians of the Bronx, for he never previously had taken active part in politics. Nevertheless in the election he defeated the Republican and Independent candidate, Gottlieb Hanke, by more than 10,000 votes. He was then living at Spuyten Duyvil. During his term in Congress Mr. Ayres took much interest in naval affairs. He was a dollar-a-year man in Washington during the war.

When the official ballots for the election were printed, Mr. Ayres's name appeared as Ayers and his election as Ayers was certified later. The mistake in spelling is believed to have originated in the newspapers. A trip to Washington brought him the information that all official papers signed by him would have to bear the name "Ayers."

After the war Mr. Ayres never resumed business. He was the author of several books, among them "Building an American Merchant Marine" and "Our United States Postal Service." He was also a lecturer in New York University's Summer school.

Was Twice Married.

In 1884 Mr. Ayres married Harriet Margaret Bower of Penn Yan, N. Y., and in 1905 he married Helen Thompson Haseltine. Besides his widow, who was president of the Women's National Democratic League during Mr. Ayres's term in Congress, he is survived by a son, Malcolm B. Ayres, and a daughter, Mrs. Edward R. Perkins 2nd.

Mr. Ayres was a charter member of the City Knickerbocker Club and Dunwoodie Country Club. He also belonged to the University Club of Washington, Andover Club of New York University, Ardley Country Club, New York Historical Society and Psi Upsilon fraternity.

Travelers Ask Merchants to Help

The committee in charge of convention plans for the United Commercial Travelers' state convention, which will be held in this city this week, has requested the Uptown Business Men's Association to make special effort to show the visitors what Kingston has to offer. This committee has requested that the merchants offer some special bargains on Friday when the 300 women who will be in attendance, will make tours of the stores. These women will tour the stores in several groups and inspect the business places. In order to show what Kingston merchants can do in the way of bargains the committee requests that some special merchandise proposition be offered that day.

Ulster Dairymen Kingstonian Slain Have Big Meeting After Dice Losses At New Paltz

Members of Dairy Improvement Association and Holstein Club Present—Program Very Interesting—Improvement Made in Dairy Herds.

Dairymen from all parts of Ulster county and the northern part of Orange county met at New Paltz last Friday evening. About 50 men were present.

After a splendid dinner Albert Kurdt, manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, called the meeting to order. The first order of business was the election of officers. Harry Beatty of Kingston was elected president of the Dairy Improvement Association and Mr. Kurdt was elected secretary-treasurer.

B. H. Decker, president of the Ulster County Holstein Club and manager of the Shawangunk Valley Stock Farm, was introduced. He is one of the leading Holstein breeders in the county. He made a few remarks about the activities of the Holstein Club, laying emphasis on the showing of cattle at the Ulster County Fair during August. He also stated that the club was squarely behind 4-H Club work. A campaign for members will soon be put on.

Bruyn Cup For Cow.

Mr. Kurdt made an announcement regarding the cup presented by Mr. Bruyn, owner of the Shawangunk Valley Stock Farm. This cup will be given to the owner of the cow that produces the most butterfat for two consecutive years. For the year ending September 30, 1928, John H. Beatty had the high cow for the year. This cow produced 519 pounds of butterfat. The same individual is doing very well so far this year.

The next feature on the program was the distribution of National Dairy Association Honor Rolls by the Hon. Millard Davis. More than a dozen of these were distributed to owners of herds that averaged over 300 pounds of butterfat per cow for the year.

Herd Summary Presented.

Next came the most important part of the program, with the introduction of Prof. W. T. Crandall, of the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca. Prof. Crandall had a summary prepared of the herds that completed a year in the Dairy Improvement Association last fall. This included twelve herds. The summary showed that a total of 247 cows produced an average of 9,326 pounds of milk in one year. This production showed an average income over feed cost of $197 per cow.

The above figures show a marked improvement over three years previous, when this work was started. The average production was then 8,124 pounds of milk per cow. They showed an income over feed cost of only $135 per cow. This increase in production and consequent increase in profit amply justifies the existence of the Dairy Improvement Association.

Some Herd Records.

The Shawangunk Valley Stock Farm had 40 cows that completed the year with an average production of 11,244 pounds of milk per cow and 376 pounds of butterfat. The herd owned by M. T. E. DeWitt was the only one to exceed this with 377 pounds of butterfat per cow for the year. The herd owned by Millard Davis was third with an average production of 10,395 pounds of milk and 369 pounds of butterfat.

The Dairy Improvement Association is conducted by the Ulster County Home Bureau. It is one of the most important livestock projects being carried on. It is doing a great deal to improve the quality of dairy cows on farms and increasing the return to dairymen. Farmers seeking herd sires can well afford to purchase one backed by a record made in the Association. Information to this effect can always be secured at the Farm Bureau office.

Metal Workers Sign Agreement

The sheet metal workers of Kingston have signed an agreement with the master contractors at the old wage scale with the understanding that the first of January, 1930, a new agreement will be signed granting them a five-day week at a wage scale of $10 a day.

The agreement was signed after several conferences between members of the local union and the master contractors, and the signing marked a walk out of the sheet metal workers which had been scheduled for last Saturday.

Walter Hoetger, Unable to Pay Losses at Dice in Hoboken Restaurant, Is Shot to Death

Walter Hoetger, of Kingston, N. Y., got into a dice game Saturday night in Louis Signey's restaurant at 219 Newark street, Hoboken.

Signey remained in the restaurant after the shooting and the rest of the group, none of whom cared to be the first to leave under the circumstances, sat around somewhat uneasily until about 5 o'clock, when James J. Leach mustered up courage to tip toe to the door. Reaching the sidewalk, he broke into a run and did not stop until he reached police headquarters. Signey was arrested and Leach and Edward McMahon were held as witnesses.

Witnesses said that he said he could get the money within a day or two, but that Signey refused to listen to such a proposal, went around the corner to his home and returned with a revolver, with which he killed Hoetger with a single shot.

Hoetger was arrested at his home at 10 Valley street last July by Officer William J. Reardon on a warrant charging him with abandoning his children. He was later arraigned before Judge Shufeldt in police court and held to await the action of the grand jury. When the case came up in county court Hoetger arranged to pay a certain sum weekly for the support of his family. Since then, it is said, that he has been living in and around New York City, where he was employed as a boatman.

Arrest Drivers Without Licenses

Hundreds of motorists who failed to equip themselves with the new 1929-30 operators or chauffeur licenses were halted on the highways throughout the state by State Troopers on Saturday and Sunday and arrested. The following cases came before Justice of the Peace Alexander Speers of the town of Ulster at his court in Lake Katrine:

Trooper Drummond and Constable Benson arrested on Saturday Roscoe Brown of East Kingston. He was charged with operating a car without a license and received 10 days in the county jail.

The same day Lonnie Hull of Kingston pleaded guilty to driving without a license and paid a fine of $10.

Adrent Morton of Kingston, arraigned for driving without a license, was found not guilty and discharged.

Ray White of East Kingston, arrested by Constable Watkiss for driving without a license, pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $5.

Joseph Freddema of New York City, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Constable for reckless driving, paid a fine of $15.

Frank Paterson of Jersey City and William Harrmann of Staten Island were charged with violating a traffic law in trying to pass another car 200 feet from a railroad crossing. They pleaded guilty and each paid fines of $5. The arrests were made by Trooper Kline.

Four Inmates Seek Freedom

Judge McNamee Asked by Inmates for Institution for Defective Delinquents at Napanoch to Release Them from Further Confinement.

At a regular special term of Supreme court held here Saturday with Judge McNamee presiding four inmates of the Napanoch Institution for Mental Delinquents appeared and asked their release. Habeas corpus proceedings are frequently resorted to by these men who are seeking their release.

All four men were given a hearing and an opportunity to state their reasons why they believed they should be released. One man with a record of half a dozen convictions stated that he was "framed" by the police who came to his home in New York and placed a package of dope in his coat pocket and then arrested him on a charge of having dope. Another who is but 20 years old stated that he had spent about 15 years of his life in various prisons and institutions for crime.

All four cases were adjourned to the regular special term at Hudson on June 21. The prisoners will not appear but at that time their cases will be given further consideration.

Two of the men claimed they had been sent to Napanoch but had never been convicted of any crime. These cases will be considered from that viewpoint.

The men were accompanied to court by two of the guards from Napanoch and Dr. W. N. Thayer, Jr., produced records of the men as kept at the various institutions in which the men have been confined showing their past convictions and records and their present status as determined by the mental tests administered.

Heads of Industry Friends Honor Willis A. Babcock At New London

Ask Fair Trial For Prohibition Reception and Banquet Tendered to Well Known New York Central Railroad Employee by Friends in Freight Department.

On Friday evening, May 31, Willis A. Babcock, after completing 36 years of active service in the freight department of the West Shore Railroad, accompanied by Mrs. Babcock was given a surprise party by more than 50 of Mr. Babcock's brother employees and also by his brother, Judson S. Babcock of this city. The main office at the freight station of the West Shore in this city had been decorated with bunting and flags in honor of the occasion and during the evening, in addition to congratulations offered the guest of honor, speeches, music and songs were fully enjoyed.

Freight Agent G. N. Wood, honorary chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, assisted by D. McAuliffe, chairman, acted as toastmaster at the banquet served and called upon several of the employees for a few words. Those called upon all spoke of the sterling qualities possessed by Mr. Babcock and extended best wishes for many happy years to come. Nor did their appreciation end in complimentary remarks, but as a fitting climax, Mr. Babcock was presented with a handsome reclining chair and footstool, the presentation speech being made by F. J. Leirey, Mrs. Babcock was also remembered with a beautiful bouquet of carnations and roses.

Following this rather informal but most enjoyable program, the evening's repast was served after which with added words of congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Babcock the long-to-be-remembered evening came to a close.

Action of Lawyers Attached.

A letter, expressing disapproval of the recently organized voluntary committee of lawyers opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment, and an answer to it by Joseph H. Choate, Jr., member of the board of managers of the committee, were also published. Marshall Stimson, Los Angeles attorney, asked that the committee refrain from using the word "lawyers" to avoid "bringing the legal profession further into disrepute." He asked whether any members of the committee were retained by interests seeking repeal of the amendment.

Mr. Choate replied that honest belief is the sole mainspring of the movement, adding: "We believe that prohibition is the most serious remediable evil from which the country now suffers."

Judge Hoyt Wins $25,000 Prize.

The messages to the American people and the lawyers' letters were published a day after the announcement that Justice Franklin C. Hoyt, of the New York children's court, had been awarded the prize of $25,000 offered by William R. Hearst for a substitute plan for prohibition.

Justice Hoyt's plan called for repeal of the Volstead Act and enactment of a new law defining "intoxicating liquors" as "all alcoholic products of distillation," thereby excluding wines and beer. Traffic in wine and beer would be under state regulation under his plan.

King Celebrates Birthday Abed

Windsor, England, June 3 (AP).—King George celebrates his sixty-fourth birthday today, not as he would like to have celebrated it, but propped up in bed in the Victoria Tower of Windsor Castle.

The absence at the old luncheon incision was declared by his doctors to be not serious and to be taking a normal course. But, appearing as it did eight days ago, it added an inevitable dolent note to festivities which had been planned for thanks giving at his recovery from the long illness of last winter.

It was regarded as an interesting coincidence that this was the first time King George had spent his birthday at Windsor since he came to the throne nineteen years ago.

ONE DEAD WHEN WYOMING CREEK GOES ON RAMPAGE

Cheyenne, Wyo., June 3 (AP).—Swollen by rain of cloudburst proportions, Crow Creek, normally a foot deep and three feet wide, went on its first rampage since 1923 yesterday and took one life, flooded about 200 homes in the Cheyenne bottoms and crumpled irrigation dams on the Hereford Ranch, eight miles east of here. Property damage is estimated at $350,000.

Before you can clean anything you need soft water

And the way to have soft water is to use MeLo. It is a wonderful cleaner. It makes soap much more effective. It saves from 1/4 to 3/4 the amount ordinarily used.

Dishes sparkle... clothes are snowy white... dirty rings vanish from bathtubs... grease spots go when you use MeLo. Use it wherever you want an effective cleaner. Use it because it saves your hands. Get it at your grocer's.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

The Sleeveless Cotton Dress a Summer Winner in All Sports.

New York.—The sleeveless dress, which usually but not always, has become the accepted summer uniform in smart circles. They are varied in form and detail, but have of course a good deal of women's size necklines are V shaped and sleeves are missing.

From time to time attempts have been made to popularize the divided skirt, and with pajamas being discarded by the elect, designers quite naturally feel that there must be a respective feeling for other forms of elaborated garments. The dress sketched is certainly one of the latest attempts put forth, and excepting under unusual circumstances would never be recognized as a divided skirt. Women who drive their own car will be most appreciative of this type of skirt just as they are of the sensible dresses completed by matching shorts, an idea borrowed from the play clothes of the younger set.

Planting at Front and Back to Disguise the Fact That the Skirt Is Divided and Made Like Shorts, and a Gilet in Double Breasted Effect Are the Outstanding Features of This Spring Dress.

(Copyright, 1929, by Fairchild.)

There are shorts for bathing as well as for driving and other activities, and greater attention to matching either bloomers, or shorts to the frock with which they are worn, seems a step in the right direction. Cotton as everyone knows is a pet fabric of those who can afford silk. It is used for almost every purpose, and in plique and other substantial weaves, to the sheerest dimity and lawn. The cotton, backless frock for purposes of sunbathing is a favorite in the community, while all manner of attractive home frocks are fashioned of gay cottons, the patterns of which are borrowed from silks and tweeds. Street cottons are those which follow the colorings and patterns appropriate for street wear.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Pretty and Practical Apron Frock for Mature Figures

6193. Yoke portions that extend over the shoulder in short sleeve portions, and form a deep piasion over the front, are a feature of this model. A small shawl collar outlines the V neck. Ample pockets trim the front, and girder-belt portions hold the fullness at the back of this pleasing model. As pictured, it was developed in black-and-white-figured percale with white broadcloth for facings, bindings and belt. Gingham in the new small checks is also suggested, or cotton prints in the pretty floral or conventional designs.

The pattern for this apron frock is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 38-40; medium, 42-44; large, 46-48; extra large, 50-52 inches bust measure. To make the garment in a medium size will require 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch material. For collar, string girdle and pocket facings of contrasting material 1 1/2 yard 35 inches wide and cut crosswise is required. To trim with narrow bias binding as illustrated will require 3 1/2 yards 1 1/2 inch wide. The width of the frock at the lower edge

Three who wear satin are in the minority, but they are noticeable because their satins glisten and shine. Bernadette Cie shows a rose colored model and pale pistachio green is new. Rita is 60 inches.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1929 Book of Fashions showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies' misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

KRIPIEBUSH.

Kripiebusch, June 1.—An ice cream social will be held by the members of the Epworth League in the Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall, Saturday evening, June 1. Homemade ice cream, cake and other refreshments will be on sale. Proceeds for benefit of the M. E. Church. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. Church services Sunday, June 2, at 2:30, conducted by the Rev. J. J. Lyons. Sunday school at 1:30. Every one welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde J. DuBois and daughter, Thyrta Elaine, spent the week end with Marvin Davis and family.

Mrs. Cyrus Van DeMark and Mrs. Harvey Conner spent Tuesday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Van Aken entertained their son and daughter from New Jersey over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Christians and children, Virginia and Donald, spent Saturday in Kingston.

RUBY.

Ruby, June 3.—Services will be held at Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church June 9, at 2 p. m., by the Rev. W. T. Herab of Saugerties.

The Ruby baseball team will hold a dance at the Ruby Hotel June 8, dancing from 8 to 1 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Hooker are spending some time at their bungalow in this place.

The Ruby ladies that held the dance over in the Sawkill Church hall last Wednesday night did very well.

Joe Spoonhour is working for Frank Brink at Lake Katrine, building a road to his bungalow.

The Boy Scouts of Staten Island are spending a few days on Mr. Hooker's place.

The report is there is to be started a Sunday school at Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church, which many hope is true as the children in Ruby will be glad to attend.

NEW PALTZ

New Palitz, June 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Louis LeFerre entertained Mr. and Mrs. Sol DuBois of New York over the week end.

Miss Helena LeFerre of Middletown, Orange county, visited New Palitz on Sunday.

Ralph J. Hasbrouck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hasbrouck of Paterson, N. J., is a member of the graduating class of Rutgers College.

The eighty-third birthday of Isaac LeFerre was celebrated last Sunday. Mr. LeFerre is still hale and hearty.

At the New Palitz Opera House Tuesday, June 4, Tim McCoy in "Desert Rider". Thursday and Friday, June 6 and 7, benefit of Modena Girl Scouts, "The Girl on the Barge".

Thursday matinee, 2:30 p. m., Saturday, June 8, "The Sky Skidder", a Universal picture. At Colonial Hall Wednesday, June 5, Gloria Swanson in "The Humming Bird", comedy and variety. Matinee 3:30.

Miss Mildred Gerald spent Monday at Spring Valley where she will teach next year.

Miss Frances Gerow spent Memorial Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gerow.

Mrs. Solomon Van Orden was among a number of ladies to attend the meeting on household furnishings held by the Home Bureau at Stone Ridge last Friday.

Oscar Zimmerman has returned from a two weeks' visit with his grandson, Albert Fowler and family. While there he visited the silk mills, also the coal fields, and reports a very interesting trip while at Allentown, Pa.

Mrs. Mary F. Dill, accompanied by her nephew, Dill Godfrey, spent the week end on Long Island as the guest of Mr. Godfrey's mother, Mrs. Sarah Godfrey.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eagan and Miss May Hasbrouck of Weehawken, are spending some time at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Coddington.

Mrs. Josephine Hughes of Poughkeepsie spent Sunday as the guest of Miss Margaret Brundage.

Tony Ficalora is spending several days in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Dupuy with family visited their son, Jerome Dupuy and family on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Quick were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wood in Gardiner on Tuesday.

The monthly business meeting of the Home Bureau was held in Grange Hall Thursday, May 23. At this time the following community committee was elected: Mrs. G. Boettiger, chairman; Mrs. Willard Jenkins, vice chairman; Mrs. Wurts DuBois, secretary; Mrs. Fred DuBois, treasurer; Mrs. I. C. Barnes, Mrs. Irving D. Kortright, Mrs. Charles Young, Mrs. John Denzinger, Mrs. Abram E. Jansen, Mrs. Della Dinger, Miss Ella Sullivan. Following the business meeting the members of the two hooked rug classes met for their final lesson. A splendid start has been made on the rugs, sofa pillows and chair seats. The leader, Mrs. Bond, discussed the selection and arrangement of colors in the articles displayed. The person whose hooked article meets with the Cornell requirements has first made her own design, selected her own color scheme, dyed her materials to correspond, worked her rug on the type of frame designated by the college. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Herman DuBois, Mrs. Wurts DuBois and Mrs. Bond for their interest and time spent as leaders of the hooked rug classes.

The boys of Sullivan-Shafer post of the American Legion will hold a block party on the village square June 14 at 8 p. m. Final arrangements for the affair have not been completed. Good music will be on hand. Refreshments and novelties on sale. The committee has a lot of surprises in store for amusement that night and all who attend are assured of a good time. Proceeds of the party will be added to the local building fund.

Mrs. Willis and Mrs. Gillespie of Oyster Bay, Long Island, spent the week end with their daughters who are students at the Normal.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fowler and son, Richard, of Allentown, Penn., were guests of Oscar Zimmerman on Sunday.

GRAND UNION ABSORBS ROYAL IMPORTING CO.

A transaction which has caused wide-spread discussion is the recent acquisition by the nationally-known Grand Union Company of the Royal Importing Company, distributors of groceries, coffee and tea, representing a combination of interests and facilities of vast scope and power.

The Royal Importing Company is a pioneer in the field, having been established twenty years since, and has progressed steadily until its sales for the previous year amounted to around a million dollars. Of the Grand Union Company, much is known. It represents an organization, nation-wide in interests, and catering to a huge market.

The combination of these two organizations cannot but result in a greatly augmented prestige for those concerned. The old adage "In union there is strength" appears to be in evidence at this time, and we fully anticipate that an even brighter future awaits the Grand Union Company. Through the contacts made by its officials, the company has created an invaluable reputation, with the result that prosperity has come in no small degree. The National Business Review congratulates the officials thereof upon their efforts in acquiring the Royal Importing Co.

Have to Begin Somewhere

"Neither little school teacher came along, and she says in a kidding way that 'because of' is so good as a lot of the rest of the English that we sling in the paper. Well, suppose it is, sister; if you are going to start a reform and make a general clean up you gotta begin somewhere, ain't you?"—Tattler Republic.

Everybody avoided Bill.. until he overcame "B.O."

(Body Odor)

BILL was no mind-reader. But he could see that Joan wasn't enjoying this trip into town.

Why is she edging away? he wondered. Then he saw the newspaper headline—"Hotter weather here—lookout for "B.O.""

Body odor—was that his trouble? Read Bill's own answer.

Keeps perspiration odorless "Tricky" "B.O." It fooled me all right.

"Yes, I perspired. But in a healthy, normal way. I didn't notice any unpleasantness."

"Now I realize that we become insensitive to ever-present odors; that pores constantly give off odor-causing waste—as much as a quart a day; and the hotter the weather the more we offend.

"So it's Lifebuoy for me always—and no "B.O." worries. Its purifying lather keeps the body fresher. Even removes cigarette odors from the fingers."

"We all think Lifebuoy's a fine skin soap, too—and a real safeguard against disease germs. Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent that vanishes as you rinse, tells you it purifies."

Food for LAWNS

MAGIC, you might almost call it. It works such wonders! It is sold under the name of V-C Fairway fertilizer, made by the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Corporation, who also make Bloom-Aid. It takes a special food for lawns, you know. The science of fertilization says: "A special food for plants and flowers, and another, special food for lawns."

A little or a lot! You can try these V-C products on a few potted plants or on an acre of lawn. The beauty of them is that they are clean, virtually odorless and packaged in both small and large units. Go to the nearest dealer and let him explain the advantages of scientific plant food. Prints in Silks, Cottons, Woolens Attractive Spring Fabrics Used for Costumes for Youth and Age.

Prints in the right and prints in the left. Prints in silks, cottons and woolens. Scattering down the sides of the counters and shelves of the new fabric, observes a fashion writer in the Kansas City Post.

The windows herald prints in the new dresses. The showings in the department stores bear this overwhelming evidence of the popularity of prints in the 1929 vintage.

Prints in crepes, prints in new designs and prints in new colors, are the favorites of fashion designers. It is difficult to say which plays the more important role. The styles combine some of the newest fabrics with the latest styles from the Parisian designers.

As eye to eye encounter brings out the fact that a certain sophistication has entered into the new patterns, the prints are neither prim nor demurely distributed in all patterns. It may fall in showers like the snow from the fir tree or float about like a bubble in airy grandeur and How Black Is Used.

The floral patterns have been given treatment which takes them far from the realistic bouquets pattern. Black is used to throw many of the newer shades and coloring into relief.

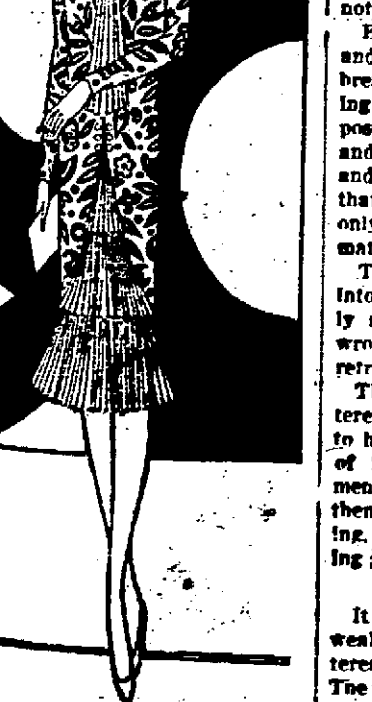

Fortunately, in this season, no one who may overpower us by mere numbers. The plain crepes, failles, tulle, tulle and satins hold their own by the new shades in which they appear and by the rule of contrast, the necessary plain background which brings out the beauty of the prints.

Strange colors are seen together in spring. The plain crepe dress and coat are enlivened by a dash of color in the scarf and bag or by a flaming handkerchief. For plain colors are the perfect partners of the dated creations. It is nothing but of silly to consider the prints about the plain fabrics.

Every woman must make her choice on the basis of her particular type. When one stops to think about the selection for the season, the general classification of types falls into the personality of the wearer. In regardless of age, there are youthful personalities, middle-aged personalities and mature personalities. Whether we like it or not, we must admit age is the basis of fashion. A woman's own care and mentality decides how far the pendulum will swing in her particular case.

The woman of conservative tastes will not break out in a rash of youthful clothes which accents her age instead of giving herself kindly consideration and real youthfulness by doing her age.

Why spend time and money on cosmetics, exercise and good health habits and spoil the whole effect

Princess Silhouette Is Featured In This Frock.

An unwise choice of too youthful dress. Any woman of thirty may be twenty-five, but if she tries to be twenty, she has made a mistake. Mentality counts in dress as everything else. The woman who is not mentally a certain quality of vigor, countenance and movement which permits her a wider choice of costume which is a revelation wears and will be in harmony with herself. She may wear a red necktie, but not a bright red dress. These are the fine points in good dress. The more dramatic. The woman often needs to tone down her personality by conservative dress. Lively, but not head, or in other words, they wear clothes to certain pitch and keep them there.

Classification by Buyers.
Buyers often say such things as the following classifications:

- The upper type.
- The boyish type.
- The demure type.
- The vivacious type.
- The conservative type.
- The statuesque type.
- The feminine type.
- The sophisticated type.
- The uninteresting type.

The middle aged personality divides itself into the following groups:

- The vivacious type.
- The conservative type.
- The dignified type.
- The feminine type.
- The sophisticated type.
- The uninteresting type.

The mature personality has even fewer divisions:

- The vivacious type.
- The conservative type.
- The matronly type.
- The uninteresting type.

At least if style is not vague in making personality the basis of one's wardrobe, it may make the choice of clothes easier. The gaiety of color and the daring colors, the sophisticated woman may wear with nerve. She may saunter out in an American beauty dress with a printed scarf of blue, cream and pale pink and get away with it beautifully, because she has been blessed by nature. Her choice should be left to her alone, not limited by the timid soul. The golden-haired blonde in warm tones either of brown or a green that will make every woman envy her, is at her best and has no need to envy any other woman. Matronly women should cling fiercely to their conservative clothes as the boyish type to her tweeds.

A conservative, statuesque type in long flowing dresses has come into her own, and if a feminine type revels in ruffles and bouffant silks, it only shows her good sense. She knows herself and makes the most of the fact that femininity is her charm and not her drawback.

Every age has its uninteresting type, and here is a place to hold your breath. Now what is an uninteresting type of woman of any age? Suppose you go into a group of ten women and stop long enough for a cup of tea and a little gossip; the chances are that you can remember accurately only six and the other four did not matter.

True enough, all ten could be thrown into the uninteresting group, sartorially speaking, by the selection of the wrong dress and the four mentioned retrieved from it by the right dress.

The four mentioned would have mattered if they had taken the trouble to have liked themselves to the plane of interest either by stirring their mentality to brightness or by clothing themselves in a standard of good dressing, not expensive dressing but becoming garb.

Be Sure of Your Type.

It is true that many women of both wealth and cultivation often are uninteresting from the standpoint of dress. The woman who can wear champagne, that yellow-green of the pussy willow tree, should do so, but she should be sure before she does it that she is the type for whom extreme things are the best selection. The many who are at their best in a becoming blue or in black and white or in prints will wear these colors with distinction which they never could attain in clothes for the sophisticated type.

A full-length mirror, a desire to look well and the assistance of a stylist who knows it is better business to send a woman away correctly dressed than to sell her the wrong thing, will erase the line between the uninteresting woman and the interesting type.

Thinking out a whole costume and buying hats, shoes, bag and costume jewelry with her ensemble in mind, has brought woman to a finer appreciation of the dress problem.

Rooster Wins Finish Fight With an Eagle

Sarasota, Fla.—Ed Zeigler, a dairyman near here, brought to Sarasota a story of a finish fight between a six-month-old Plymouth Rock rooster and an eagle in which the cock came out victorious.

He exhibited the wounded rooster in support of the tale. He and his wife heard a commotion in the barnyard, he said, and distinguishing a whirling mass of feathered bodies, went to investigate just as both combatants collapsed.

The eagle, measuring six feet one inch from wing to wing tip, was dead. The rooster was badly hurt.

A local taxidermist, to whom the eagle carcass was brought for mounting, expressed the belief that the rooster delivered a chance blow in a vulnerable spot just as the eagle swooped down.

Bothered by Conscience, Pays for Stolen Melons

Holland, Mich.—The common childhood prank of stealing watermelons weighed so heavily upon the mind of a Hollander that after years of smitten conscience he has at last paid for the stolen fruit. A 50-cent piece was contained in an anonymous letter postmarked "Holland," received by James Kollen of Overisel. A single paragraph of explanation was inclosed: "Toward swiping watermelons when a child. Thanks."

If the average child emerges from school with any esthetic taste, he seldom has his surroundings to thank. Yet what a fruitful gallery might be made of the acreage we possess of schoolroom walls! Sir Michael Sadler urges that in decorating school buildings, educational authorities should make use of the talent of our younger painters, and that on the walls should be hung reproductions of great works, ancient and modern, says the Manchester Guardian. If his policy were followed, the stimulus to our appreciation of art as a people would be incalculable, and the outlook for the artist in England proportionately happier.

The United States geographic board has decided that in official publications the name of the Florida river of song shall be spelled "Suwanee," thus disposing of other spellings, such as Swannee and Sewanee. The ruling applies, says the Savannah Morning News, to the spelling of the name, whether used for river, town, county, or whatever. Also, says the News, another Florida name has been standardized, and its spelling is "Okefenokee," eliminating three "e's" that have been employed by liberal spellers of the word.

RIVAL COTTON MILLS.

The proposal of Senator Simmons of North Carolina that the cotton mills of Massachusetts be investigated along with those of the South is welcomed by the Boston Transcript, which says that New England mill owners are "eager to have explained to their own people the handicaps under which they have been compelled to conduct their business, and goes on to point out that in Massachusetts alone "no less than seventeen heavily restrictive State laws bear upon the textile industry from which the cotton mills of the South are free." The transcript says further that, though Senator Simmons may argue that free rent and water and a garden patch at the back of the house make up for the lower Southern wage level, "the fact remains that the wage item is the largest single factor in cotton manufacturing, and that where it is appreciably lower and the mill equipment is practically the same, the more heavily burdened Northern mill can not compete."

Some observers have held that the chief advantage of the Southern mills is not cheaper labor but nearness to the cotton fields and a mild climate permitting uninterrupted operation throughout the year. An investigation may throw light on such questions and in any case can do no harm. But short of a tariff wall against the Carolinas—which Massachusetts would promptly have caused to be erected if the South had secured separate political existence in 1861-5—it is difficult to see how the distinct advantages of the Southern mills can be overcome.

ATHLETIC FOLLY.

The expulsion of Iowa State University from the Intercollegiate Big Ten blows the lid off college athletics. If Iowa has been using athletic funds to hire or support star football players, it is probably not the only institution doing so. It is a matter of common belief, one might almost say common knowledge, that in order to get and keep winning teams, many a university subsidizes athletics in some form or other.

This practice is at the same time a result and a cause of the big evil which is bedeviling American colleges. Intercollegiate athletics has developed out of all proportion to its value and importance. Students, alumni and relatives go mad about athletic competition. The old college must have a big, costly stadium, large equipment and an extensive staff of athletic directors and coaches. This takes money. A supposedly amateur sport is turned into a business, with all the whoopee, hulla-balloo and blurb of which students are capable at an excitable and imaginative age. Enormous crowds are drawn, to provide enormous cash receipts.

But the crowds and receipts and glory are not forthcoming unless there is a winning team. So the country is combed for good material. There is great competition for promising players. Naturally money talks. More and more money is used, directly or indirectly. This is the folly and the shame of current college life.

Out of the senatorial fiasco resulting from the efforts of indignant senators to discipline newspaper men for printing news legitimately obtained from senators, there emerges this illuminating passage from the questioning of the chief offender: "Will you be good enough," asked Chairman Noses, "to tell this committee the source of the information on which you based the article in question?" "Senators," replied Correspondent Malloy, "I must respectfully decline to reveal any source of that information. As you well know, as all the members of this committee know, every day a newspaper man covering the Senate obtains information from confidential sources, and when so obligated he respects that confidence."

Of course senators know it. So do public officials, business men and others, in every city in America, if they are important "news sources."

and come into frequent contact with newspaper men. Such news sources are usually confidential with reporters. They have learned that this is the best way for both sides. As a rule, the bigger the man, the more he trusts the news-writers. It is usually the less important givers of news, and those knowing least of reporters, editors and press editors, who are least frank with the newspapers.

When the steamboat came, Henry Ford observes in a recent interview, it developed the steam engine. When the automobile came, it developed the gasoline engine. Aviation has come, and so far has merely borrowed the automobile power plant, when it needs a new engine especially adapted to its needs. What is required? Two factors particularly, says Mr. Ford. They are greater lightness and more power. He says this not to criticize, but "to notify young men everywhere that the whole aviation job is yet to be done." That cannot be taken literally. The planes, which are half of aviation, are well adapted to their purpose, yet as one of the Wrights once said, with power enough an aviator could fly on a barn door. It is in the engine that the big opportunity lies. Maybe it means a new fuel. Maybe some other new source of energy. Maybe new metals. Somehow, no doubt, the job will be done.

HEALTH THE BIG ASSET.

A successful energetic salesman expected a promotion at a certain date and wondered why he did not receive it.

He kept quiet for some time and then saw another salesman step into the coveted position.

As his relations with headquarters had always been satisfactory and pleasant, he frankly asked the reason as to why he had been passed over on this occasion.

The president of the organization said: "It was simply a matter of your health. Although you did as much work, in fact more work than our other salesman, there are times when you have to quit work entirely on account of your attacks of indigestion, and there are times when your presence would be absolutely essential to the success of our business."

This "indigestion" was discovered later to be due to a stomach ulcer, which had been caused by infected teeth.

Some changes in the head office of another company gave a promotion to an employee in a distant city, and he was instructed to return immediately to the head office.

His physical appearance was rather disappointing to his superior as he had put on many pounds in weight, and seemed a little leisurely or lazy in his actions.

The suggestion was made to him that he get busy, and get rid of his surplus weight as it was tending to make him somewhat sluggish.

He simply smiled, paid no attention to the advice and in six months was again reminded that he would have to "back up" if he wanted to even "hold" his job.

The idea of further promotion was not even thought of.

After another three months as he had paid no attention to the advice to get himself into better shape physically, he was "let out," and a more "active" man secured for the position.

Industrial institutions are now requesting their employees to consult the health department of the institution at regular intervals.

Where the employee neglects to do so, and loses time through illness, he is dropped from the list and must look elsewhere for a job.

In other words the company forces him to look after his health.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

June 2, 1909.—Rufus Snyder died suddenly at his home in Rosendale. S. D. Todd of Seager appointed superintendent of fires for this district. Gang of counterfeiters were passing bad half-dollars in Kingston.

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

SYNOPSIS: When Pauline ends her story of a young girl from the South who had been the victim of a cruel and brutal life, he relates that what he thought a beautiful girl had been a "marked" one, so that only a person possessing special powers could have saved her from a life of misery and death. The story is a tale of horror and mystery, and is a story of a girl who was "marked" for death, and who was saved by a person who had special powers.

Chapter 29

THE WOMAN IN BLACK

"PRECISELY. The 'poker game' that cracked the town," Mac Nair echoed. "The town of Torridity 30 years ago. How it cracked it we don't know."

"And what—who was the stake?" I breathed.

Mac Nair gave his cold-blooded laugh. "Ah! the stake. That will be another part in our pattern."

"And the players?"

"Ogden would be one of them," Mac Nair drawled with maddening deliberation.

"And Dillon was the other!" I shouted.

He seemed to ponder this. "I don't know so much about that. Who is Dillon?"

"You know perfectly well who Dillon is!" I stormed.

to answer questions about the town."

I took her through the back door, leaving Mrs. Mofft gazing at our backs.

"Mrs. Lundy," I said briskly, "my questions have nothing whatever to do with Cosmic Indulgence."

Her mouth tightened.

"I don't wish to be impertinent," I said earnestly. "Tell me: have you been questioned by the police?"

She opened her eyes. "The police? Goodness, no! What about, Larry?"

"Where have you been ever since Friday night?"

"I was in my room at the Central Hotel. I was meditating. Four days of continuous meditation are required of the priestesses of our faith every month."

"Indeed!" I began to understand.

"You called on Mr. Andrew Ogden last week, didn't you?"

"I did."

"He gave you a check for $1,000?"

"What has that got to do with you?"

"Evidently," I said watching her closely, "you do not know that Andrew Ogden was murdered in his library last Friday night."

She looked at me, gaping. "Murdered?"

"Alex Peterson"—Mrs. Lundy again the cold-blooded la— He got up and I followed him to his car.

After he left, I went slowly back to my den. After some thought I took up the telephone and was presently talking with an old colleague who lives in Los Angeles.

After breakfast the next morning, I telephoned Deacon. To my sorrow, he had no word of the children and I strengthened my resolve to start for Skull Valley if they were not back by noon. I went out into the garden. As I approached the patio door, voices came to me. One of them was Mrs. Mofft's dismal treble. The other, a woman's voice also, I did not recognize. They came into view. Dumbfounded, I slipped behind a hydrangea bush.

Mrs. Mofft was showing—Hilts to The Woman in Black!

I did not doubt that she was Mrs. Lundy. "Tall," "angular," and "all sinew and bone and tight-shut mouth," Hubbard had described her. Her long black coat and dress were unrelieved by the slightest touch of color and I wondered how Deacon's men had missed her.

"The Lily is the vessel of purity," Her voice reminded me of a priest of one of the mystic religions. "These are beautiful."

"Mr. Peebles looks after them as if they were babies," Mrs. Mofft sighed. "I'm sure he won't mind if you want to pick a few."

I thought it time to reveal myself and I stepped from behind the hydrangea.

"Have your friend help herself, Mrs. Mofft," I said lightly.

My housekeeper started. "Oh! I didn't know you were here, Mrs. Lundy. Why, why—this is Mrs. Lundy, the demonstrator of our circle."

I bowed. "Mrs. Mofft said you were—forgive me if I did not understand."

"Demonstrator of the Forty-ninth Circle in the Fifth Realm, Cosmic Indulgence," she informed me serenely.

Light broke upon me. "Ah! Cosmic Indulgence!"

"You have heard of—beautiful faith, Mr. Peebles?"

"Hm!" I said. "Yes. From Mrs. Mofft. The latter cast a doubtful eye at me. 'Do you mind coming into my study for a few minutes before you go?'"

She did not seem surprised. "Of course not. We are always glad to see you."

"Results Have Been Far Better Than I Had Ever Expected."

Pierpont Street Lady Is Amazed At Splendid Results Obtained From Nu-Erb.

"After what Nu-Erb has done for me, I will recommend it to anyone," said Mrs. J. Lucas, 55 E. Pierpont street, Kingston, N. Y., in a recent statement to the Nu-Erb man at McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall street.

"For several years I have been troubled with indigestion and severe pains through my stomach, caused by gas formations. I'd get severe attacks of heartburn, staggering dizzy spells and dark spots floated before my eyes. My nerves were in such a weakened condition that even the least noise around the house made me irritable. I slept poorly at night and I was a chronic victim to constipation."

"Since taking the Nu-Erb, my stomach is in better condition than it has been for years. I have no more trouble with gas or any other distress after meals. It has stopped the dizzy spells, spots before my eyes. It has given me a splendid appetite and my nerves are quieter than they have been for many a day. I gladly recommend this medicine."

"Persons who take Nu-Erb say that there is nothing like this remarkable medicine to put an end to such misery and suffering. It tones, strengthens and regulates the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and drives poisons from the system which cause rheumatism and neuritis. Nu-Erb is free from minerals and all harmful poisons and drugs."

McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine."

THE AETNA INSTALLMENT PLAN

An Important Message to
UN-INSURED
Automobile Owners

YOU know the risk you are taking in driving without adequate liability insurance.

You read almost daily of verdicts that would mean bankruptcy for most of us. Doubtless you almost tremble with the thought of how an accident might deprive you not only of your car, but of your home and your other possessions. Yet for one reason or another you still go insurance-less!

There are many like you. — far too many! Most of them find it inconvenient, at least, to pay in one payment, for the protection they so sorely need.

To meet this very real need the Aetna has put in force—

The AETNA Instalment Plan
For Automobile Insurance
Premiums

This method of convenient payments is applicable to all coverages provided liability is included. You may pay your premium in two, three or four equal monthly payments.

The "AETNA" Automobile Liability policy will also meet the requirements of the New Automobile Financial Responsibility Law. Don't Delay—Aetna-ize today!

More Entries
In Exposition

The office force engaged by Excelsior Hose Co. was enlarged in order to handle the great amount of work caused through the rush of registrations for the many entries in the various events connected with the Parents' Exposition.

The greatest number of entries were received Saturday and Sunday. However the candidates nominated in the Kingston's Favorite Daughter Election are under the impression that it is a beauty contest. This is not the case and candidates are not judged on that point.

The general public is supporting liberally the boys entered in Kingston first industrious boys' contest, purchasing from them tickets of admission to the forthcoming celebration.

In addition to the merchants' and manufacturers' exposition the committee is planning an automobile show. In fact the program will be long and varied.

The beautiful window display at the headquarters, 35 John street, are causing considerable favorable comment. It is there that the many beautiful loving cups and other prizes are on display. Headquarters will be open daily from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Nominations of Foreign Wars Vets

At the Hudson Valley County Council meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars held Sunday at Hudson, nominations were made for officers to be elected at the next regular meeting to be held the first Sunday in July at Middletown.

The following were nominated: E. Madden Decker, Middletown; Charles Bollinger, Hudson, and Isaac Trowbridge, Kingston, for county commander; John Mundy, Newburgh, and Otto Thurn, Kingston, senior vice-commander; Max Brozio, Hudson, junior vice-commander; Edward J. Perry, Kingston, chaplain; E. J. Wortman, Kingston, quartermaster; Bernard J. Roach, Kingston, county inspector; B. J. Kaplan, Kingston, county judge advocate; B. J. Kaplan, county surgeon; Herman Britcliffe, Poughkeepsie, county liaison officer; the Messrs. Scott of Catskill and Katz of Poughkeepsie, trustees.

At the meeting Joseph Mitchell of Joyce-Schrick Post, No. 1,386, of this city, outlined his plans for conducting the duties of state junior vice-commander for which position he is a candidate. He will receive the hearty support of the Hudson Valley County Council.

"Miss Kingston"
Among the Finals

Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald of 31 Maple street, who was chosen as Miss Kingston in the recent beauty contest held at the Broadway Theatre, was eliminated in the finals of the statewide contest at Schenectady Saturday when Miss Schenectady was chosen as Miss New York State.

It is considered an honor to reach the finals in such a contest as the one entered by Miss Fitzgerald, who was accompanied by her mother on the trip to Schenectady. After the contest the girls were tendered a banquet at one of the leading hotels.

Scenes of the beauty contest were taken by the Fox Movie camera and will be shown at the Broadway Theatre in the near future.

BENEDICTINE AUXILIARY
WILL MEET JUNE 12.

The Benedictine Auxiliary will meet Wednesday, June 12, at the nurses' home instead of June 5, the first Wednesday of the month, when regular meetings convene. The meeting date was advanced in order to give all a chance to make returns for the Benedictine ball, so that the matter may be closed before the summer vacation period.

HOW

DUST MOTES CONTRIBUTE TO DOWNFALL OF RAIN.—Dust and sand play a more important part than is generally realized in bringing about rainfall, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

When water-vapor particles condense into water droplets, whether on their rise from the sea or after numerous cloud-making adventures, they not only grasp their nearest fellow molecules but they must find infinitesimal bits of floating material, such as dust motes—a sort of magic carpet—and crowd upon them.

Dust usually is present abundantly, thanks to the winds and to volcanoes; and in the thickly populated regions of the earth thousands of chimneys throw into the air in their smoke millions of potential cloud nuclei.

Even over the center of the greatest ocean there are as many as 750 dust particles in a thimbleful of air, and over the streets and buildings of large cities perhaps 200,000. In one cubic foot of air in any of our great cities there are twice as many dust motes as there are human inhabitants of the earth.

Widely separated, the motes with their vapor passengers, at first float about like asteroids in space, but gradually the cold of the upper regions causes more and more of the vapor molecules to jump out of their gaseous form and attach themselves to existing droplets until the latter are built into drops heavy enough to fall earthward.

How the Cacao Bean Is Employed in Commerce

The common beverages known as cocoa and chocolate are both prepared from the seeds or beans of a tropical tree, Theobroma cacao. In making chocolate the cacao beans are roasted, shelled and ground into a smooth, fine-grained paste, which is run into molds and cooled in the form of cakes or bars. These cakes, which contain 50 per cent or more of the fat called "cocoa butter," constitute the chocolate of commerce. Sometimes, however, instead of cooling the chocolate paste and molding it into cakes it is subjected to pressure and part of the cocoa butter is extracted. The partially defatted press cake is pulverized and sifted, and the fine powder resulting is put in packages and sold as cocoa. Chocolate, then, is the ground and powdered cacao beans deprived of a large part of their fat. Frequently no sharp distinction is made between the beverages made from chocolate cakes and cocoa powder. In many restaurants a person who orders chocolate will get the same beverage that he would get if he ordered cocoa.—Pathfinder Magazine.

How to "Restore" Honey

Gleanings in Bee Culture says that pure honey is liable to granulate during cold weather and that it can be restored to its former liquid condition without injuring its flavor in any way by placing the container in a vessel of warm water and never allowing the temperature to go above 120 degrees. The honey will then become liquid and retain its delightful aroma. Honey is composed chiefly of two sugars, dextrose and levulose. Of these, the former crystallizes quite readily, while the latter does not. During cool weather the dextrose is liable to crystallize, while the levulose remains in solution, forming a coating of the dextrose crystals. This is what gives to pure honey when granulated its peculiar consistency, which is entirely different from that of the crystals formed in ordinary sugar.

How Inaugural Was Set

The Continental congress, on September 13, 1786, selected the first Wednesday in the following March as the day on which proceedings under the Federal Constitution should begin. On that day, which happened to be March 4, the terms of congressmen and executives began. As the terms of those officers were set for two, four and six years, it follows that they always begin and expire on March 4.

The period between election and inauguration was made as great as it is because of the time required for communication and travel in those days between such distant states as New Hampshire and Georgia and the Capital.

How Soot Is Measured

From measurements made with an interfering gauge at a London weather office, experts estimate that about six tons of soot fall on every square mile of the city's area in a year. The gauge consists chiefly of a funnel arrangement through which rain water falls, and is collected into bottles. Once a month, the content of the bottles is subjected to a chemical analysis, and from this examination, the total amount of soot is computed.

CENTRAL HUDSON GIRLS
ENTERTAINED AT CATSKILL

The Girls' Club of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation of Kingston was recently entertained by the club members of the Catskill District.

A very delightful dinner was served in the Home Service Auditorium under the direction of Miss Calhoun, Home Service director, assisted by Miss Finch.

Following the dinner the guests were entertained by Mr. Thomas, manager of the New Sauphugh Hotel, Catskill. Mr. Thomas gave an interesting account of an extensive Mediterranean cruise which he had taken recently. He illustrated his lecture with movies taken during the trip with a miniature movie camera. Several views of ancient Carthage and Tunis brought back many historic events. Many scenic views were also shown of Italy and the Strait of Gibraltar.

Guests included district managers and their wives, Miss Howard of Poughkeepsie and girls from Rosendale, Saugerties, Tannersville and Kingston.

Terre Haute, Ind.—Ten of the thirty-two women who live at the Fairbanks home for aged women here have bobbed hair. The oldest with short hair is Mrs. Katherine Ramey, eighty-two. The youngest is Mrs. Mary Kemp, seventy-four, who in addition to a bob has a permanent wave.

Sell Pilgrim Halves.

Once $1, for 50 Cents
Boston.—Massachusetts citizens have been offered a bargain in United States currency. As long as they last, half dollars will be sold to the public by the state treasurer for 50 cents each.

By act of congress in 1920 and 1921, 300,000 Pilgrim half dollars were minted as souvenirs of the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims. Most of these were sold at $1 each. Coins representing a value of $24,775 remain unsold, however, and the state treasurer has now been authorized to sell these at par.

Don a new Jantzen Sun-suit! Then out to the warm sands of the beach... to revel in the healthful ultra-violet rays of the sun. Confident you'll be that your attire is most appropriate, striking and in good taste. Note the low neck and back... like an evening gown. Note, too, that the arm-straps are part of the suit, not sewed on. Like all Jantzens, the new Sun-suit is a perfect-fitting garment, tightly knitted from the strongest long-fibred wool. And due to the perfection of Jantzen-stitch, it always fits you lightly, comfortably, smoothly... without a wrinkle. See this and other new Jantzen models here on display. Conveniently buttonless in sizes to 40. Your weight is your size.

Real Antiques at Village Fair

One of the outstanding features of the English Village Fair to be held on the spacious grounds of the residence of Mrs. Williams Carter on the afternoons and evenings of Thursday and Friday of this week, will be the real antiques that will be sold at a booth in charge of Mrs. Carter. The booths themselves also will be well worth seeing. John D. Schoonmaker, Jr., is in charge of an especially good committee who will specialize in booths which will be picturesque, original and funny.

Each evening an excellent cafeteria supper will be served in the parish house of St. John's Church, adjoining the grounds of Mrs. Carter. The Parish Aid, Mrs. G. N. Wood in charge, will have charge of this supper and the many folks in Kingston who have enjoyed suppers prepared and arranged under Mrs. Wood's supervision know that the "eats" will be very good indeed.

There will be dancing out of doors each evening with a splendid orchestra furnishing beguiling music. This feature is in charge of Roger Scott. There will be only a very nominal entrance admission and there will be a reasonable charge for the supper and for dancing. But articles for sale, such as will appeal to everybody, will be found in abundance, at reasonable prices and there will be many surprises.

As plans continue to develop for the English Village Fair, additional features are being added to the already interesting list of attractions. The most recent addition is a flower booth, where not only seasonal cut flowers will be on sale at modest prices, but there will also be plants and shrubs for sale. Owners of some of the finest gardens in Kingston have offered choice plants and shrubs, which will go on sale the first afternoon of the fair.

The antique booth, under the supervision of Mrs. Williams Carter, promises to be most attractive to those interested in genuine antiques. This antique booth must not be regarded as a glorified rummage sale, for the articles which are to be offered are worthy a place in any fine home. Already many lovely articles have been received from well-known collectors in Kingston, and it is hoped to have something to suit every purse. There will be several fine old paintings and prints for sale also. Collectors can hardly afford to miss this opportunity.

In connection with the sale of antiques will be a stall given over to the sale of rare old books. The number of books to be offered is not large but it is a very interesting one.

SAUGERTIES

Saugerties, June 3.—The Misses Jennie Hanna and Fannie Post, former residents of this village and now of Brooklyn, are spending the summer months at their bungalow in Woodstock. They called on friends in this place on Friday afternoon.

Miss Betty Terwilliger has been reaccepted to teach in the Cedar Grove school during the coming season.

William Knappert, valedictorian of the graduating class of the local high school, took the Cornell scholarship examination at Kingston on Saturday.

Measure of Value

Every day the world's measure of value seems to be more disturbed. Money used to mean something, but at the present time coin and banknotes have become mere trash as compared with objects of seemingly most trivial moment. The other day a little Greek bronze statue of Aphrodite was sold at auction for $20,000. The day before it was heavily taken by the atmospheric acids of some 25 centuries and shows a somewhat pudgy-faced woman of no especial distinction, and of stiff, if rather, realistic stance, says the New Orleans Times-Picayune. From foot to the tip of her collar, that looks remarkably like a close-fitting flapper hat of today, the "goddess" stands exactly seven and one-half inches tall. But this little antiquarian's bauble was knocked down for $20,500—the price of a fine home, or of ten or more high-grade automobiles. What has come over our plutocrats that they "waste" such sums on such rusty bronze nothings?

Announcement has just been made by the Department of State that the American minister at Ottawa and the prime minister of Canada have just signed a convention providing for the construction of remedial work in the Niagara river above the falls, for the purpose of maintaining and improving the scenic beauty of Niagara falls and rapids. That will be gratifying to all Americans, and to millions of citizens of other countries, many of whom hope to see this wonder of the world, says the Trenton (N. J.) Evening Times. During the last half century commercialism has made great ravages and was preparing to make other diversions of water which were likely, if not to destroy the falls, to take from them their main attraction.

Guessing Games

THEY were a lot of fun when we were youngsters, those guessing games. Guess who this is! Guess the number of beans in the pot! Guess how long the pendulum will swing! Sometimes we came pretty close to the right answer. Sometimes we were a long way off. Whichever we were, we all had a good time, and the worst guesser got as much of the evening's refreshments as the best.

How far away those guessing games seem now! And how they have lost their appeal. Perhaps it's because we learned, as we grew older, that to know is better than to guess. Guess which is the best package on the grocer's shelf! Guess which bolt of cloth is pure wool! Guess which talking machine will give us most satisfaction! No, guessing for those things wasn't so much fun. We wanted to be certain. And that was one of the reasons we turned to advertising.

Advertising takes the guesswork out of buying. It lets us know what is best and what is cheapest and what will last longest. It does away with unsatisfactory uncertainties. The advertisements in this newspaper tell a concise, interesting and accurate story about articles you need. Reading them is the surest and quickest path to wise buying. It eliminates guessing.

By reading the advertisements regularly, and buying advertised goods, you take the guessing out of spending your money.

Liquor Conditions In Canada and United States

This article is the second of a series of fourteen by Mrs. Sinclair Lewis on the Canadian liquor situation.

By MRS. SINCLAIR LEWIS

(Formerly Dorothy Thompson)

Evening Post Foreign Service.

Copyright, 1929, by N. Y. Evening Post, Inc.

On this American continent Montreal is the drinker's paradise. It is comfortable and easy of access from the Eastern United States. You can get on a train in New York after dinner and be off in Montreal before breakfast.

The hotels are spacious, comfortable, hospitable and extremely tolerant of the drinking habits of the "dry" United States.

In this charming city there are even—concerning the drinking power of residents of the United States. And, considering the tendency of the Canadian, and particularly of the Quebec, press to take a crack at United States follies wherever and whenever the opportunity presents itself, it is amazing with what solicitude these visitors are handled.

A leading hotel in Montreal, the officials of which have developed, through seven years of practice an instinct for discovering in advance which restaurants look like serious drinkers' haunts, that these should be assigned to rooms surrounding a single court, where they will disturb no one but themselves. This action followed complaints of Canadians and other less alcoholic visitors that they were often accosted in the halls by drunken and hilarious hotel guests. In summer, when the windows are wide open, roasts are often called from chamber to chamber and emptied bottles are heard to hurtle upon the courtyard plaster.

Quebec is Amused. The best view of these drinkers is on Sunday night at the railroad station. The prevailing accent on the platform is New York somewhat thickened. The prevailing topic is how much each traveler is taking back with him (business of a loving pat on a bulging pocket); how he is going to evade the customs, and whether a particular "Pete" or "George" is the porter on the night train. "You just leave it to George," is what they say. "He'll stick it in the dressing room for you until you're over the border."

Quebec, after seven years of liquor control, regards these travelers with slightly wondering amusement, because whatever liquor control has or has not done for Canada, it has performed one stupendous service: It has eliminated alcohol from conversation; it has done away with drink as a mental obsession. When one goes out for tea with Canadians in Montreal, one gets tea and not cocktails, and when cocktails and wine are served at dinner, it is done without comment and without interest. I found it difficult to get people to talk about the liquor situation. They were not aware—most of them—that there was a liquor situation.

The question's settled for us," was the answer. "The law is passed; it's pretty well obeyed; people who want to drink can and those who don't, don't have to. The people who are selling liquor haven't any personal interest in pushing sales. They stand or fall on their honesty, on the efficiency with which they manage the business, and on the decency with which they administer the law. Why talk about it?"

Do Talk About Us. But they do talk about United States drinkers. Considering the legends, it is remarkable that out of 4,000-odd arrests for drunkenness in the Province last year, nearly a fourth were foreigners, but only 149 were residents of the United States. The answer, according to the authorities, is that one may get as drunk as one likes in one's own room, and that people are not arrested if they are minding their own business and not disturbing the peace. Our gargantuan drinkers, therefore, seem to be good-natured citizens, at least. Or perhaps they are more noisy than numerous.

And they are not altogether undesirable visitors. In their generously liquor moments they are splendid game for the urbane shopkeepers surrounding the great hotels, who sell them antique silver and furs—peace offerings for wives left at home. For we citizens of the United States are a remorseful people.

The third article of this series by Mrs. Lewis will appear tomorrow.

ELLENVILLE. Mike Hartonian, former chef at the Mitchell House, and his sister, Mrs. Esther Kaplan, of New Britain, Conn., left on Wednesday for Montreal where they spent Memorial Day. From there they will sail for France and Germany where they will remain for about four months. Hartonian will return to Ellenville after his tour.

The Ellenville Woman's Club will hold their annual picnic on Tuesday, June 11, at the Hillside Camp of Mrs. B. C. Eaton, Killbuck. They plan to leave at 11 a. m.

A picture, "The Innocents of Paris," and a special entertainment under the direction of Mrs. Charles H. Van Kirk was given at the Shadowland Theatre on Wednesday for the benefit of the American Legion. The entertainment consisted of a short Civil War play, a special for Memorial Day, under the direction of Mrs. Esther Phelps. Those taking part in the play were: Union officers, Isidore Blader, Willet Parham; Confederate officer, Philip Korn; Union private, Thomas Richard; Robert O'Neil and Clifford Westcott. Following the play, Dr. Edwards recited "In Flanders Fields" and Marie Rosenberg, "America's Sweetest Girl" sang a duet.

At the invitation of the J. O. U. A. M. three Scout troops of the village assembled in the Red Men's rooms on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. There were thirty-eight Boy Scouts present. Fred Palmer, district deputy of Highland gave a short prayer, after which Oliver Stibbs, past state counselor of the J. O. U. A. M. of Poughkeepsie talked to the Scouts about patriotism and the history of the flag. He also gave a short history of his organization. A first aid demonstration was put on by the members of the Methodist troop, a signaling demonstration by the Jewish troop and an artificial respiration and carrying demonstration by the Reformed troop.

Dr. Charles H. Van Kirk, William Carman and Max E. Lambert of Wawarsing Chapter, R. A. M., attended a meeting of the Catskill Chapter on Tuesday evening.

A gang of men were put to work on Monday on the Cape road, continuing the construction of the macadam road from where they left off last fall.

Robert Shurter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Shurter, who has been doing graduate work at Columbia University, has completed his work with honors and will receive his degree of Master of Arts from the University on June 4.

Percy Goldsmith has purchased a new Ford from the Marshall-Jansen Co.

Several members of an Ellenville bridge club motored to Port Jervis on Monday evening and had dinner at the Sundial Inn. Those attending were Mrs. Harold B. Gillette, Mrs. W. L. Douglas, Mrs. Robert McCartney, Mrs. John Dunlop, Mrs. Dorothy V. Hoerner, Mrs. Allen D. Potter, Mrs. Tuthill McDowell, Mrs. Fred Tuthill McDowell, Mrs. Fred J. Frear, Mrs. B. H. Wood and Mrs. S. Maxwell Taylor.

Mrs. Chester Dell of Chester is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Warner, on Market street.

Herbert I. Drucker, who is studying dentistry in Brooklyn spent the holiday week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Drucker.

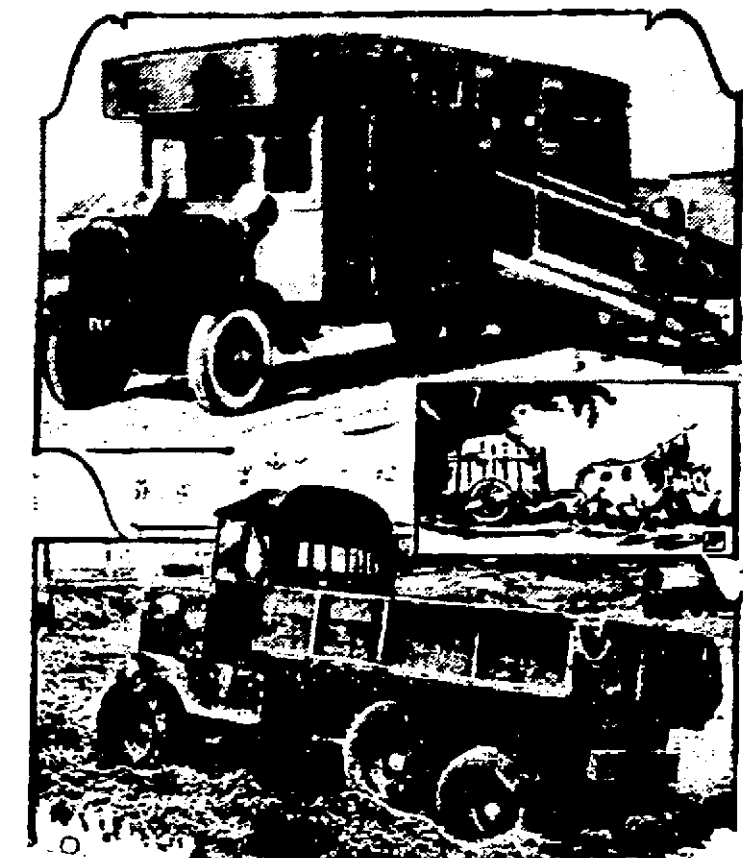

Miss Olga Pickson has taken a position at the Institution for Defective Delinquents at Napanoch.

Mrs. Eva Van Kirk, District Deputy Grand Matron of the Green-Cluster District of the O. E. S. and officials believe their tests will be far enough along to make definite recommendations of varieties resistant to the pest or else of so short a season as to make attacks unlikely. Dr. H. B. Sprague, agronomist at the experiment station, believes late planting, too, will prevent injury. Adult borers will be forced to lay their eggs before corn comes up. In that, short-season strains will be beneficial.

Corn is one of the New Jersey farmer's most important field crops. It has an annual value of about $8,000,000.

Transportation Progress To Be Depicted By Army

The army's new palace car for horses (above) and a modern six-wheeled truck (below) will be compared with primitive modes of transportation at an exhibition at Camp Holabird, Md., beginning June 12.

Cheat European Corn Borer

Thick-stalked, early maturing corn (above) expected to lessen the damage of crop's greatest enemy.

New Brunswick, N. J. (P.)—Hundreds of miles from the great corn belt, New Jersey is perfecting a plan to defeat the European corn borer.

It consists simply of creating a thick-stalked short-season variety of corn. An extensive test of more than 70 strains of standard corn varieties was begun at the New Jersey agricultural experiment station in 1928. The strains under test are from all parts of the corn growing sections of the country.

By the time the corn borer invasion is serious in New Jersey,

Cyrus T. Carle, Assistant Grand Lecturer will make their official visit to Wawarsing Chapter, O. E. S., on Monday evening, June 3, at 8 o'clock at the Masonic Temple.

Reuben Burton, who recently sold his property at Wawarsing to the Ursuline Academy of Middletown for a school and camp for girls has purchased the Frank Hornberger home on Green Acres and is planning to move there the first of June.

The June meeting of the Shawangunk Garden Club will be held next Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Douglas of Maple Avenue. The evening will be spent in visiting the gardens of members.

Mrs. B. H. Terwilliger and daughter, Miss Katherine, have sailed for Europe where they will visit many of the principal countries. They plan to be away the greater part of the summer.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, June 3.—The excessive heat of Decoration Day brought forth a great outpouring of auto parties and the various local refreshment dispensaries did a rushing business. The Maple Dell house was filled to capacity and served dinner to twenty-five guests. The parking space at the Watson Hollow Inn was well filled with cars during the afternoon and evening while attending. Numerous picnic and fishing parties were encountered in a drive around the reservoir, and the various camps and bungalows were occupied by a full quota of holiday visitors.

The "whoopie" dance held at Colange's hall on Wednesday evening was largely attended and even though the weather was exceedingly warm the Night Hawk orchestra was full of pep and everyone appeared to enjoy to the utmost the evening's fun.

Lawrence Kelder of Roselle, N. J., spent the holiday at his home at West Shokan Heights.

Charles H. Weidner, of the Hickory Hill Poultry Farm, was on a business errand in Kingston on Tuesday.

IN TOMORROW EVENING'S FREEMAN.

WM. ROSENTHAL

275 FAIR STREET,

KINGSTON, N. Y.

Mrs. Arthur Condon and niece, Betty Perry, were afternoon luncheon guests at Mrs. Watson Bishop's on Wednesday.

The weather being rather hot on Tuesday, Ernest Constable decided to take a day's rest from his labors at wall building on the High Point Springs estate.

Local farmers are striving diligently to get their corn grounds in condition for planting.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Crispell of Stone Ridge, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Ullrich Crispell Jones, and Mrs. Hall, were local callers on Wednesday afternoon, after cleaning up and decorating their plot in the Bushkill Cemetery.

While speaking of the recent army balloon race, two of which landed in Ulster county, local residents recalled the balloon carrying two men which passed over here in October, 1909, and came to earth safely near Wicawau, where it was dismantled and shipped back to its starting point in the vicinity of New York City.

Repairs and alterations are being made to the Metrol camp in Watson Hollow. The work is being done by the occupants who are spending the week end there.

Wednesday night an Essex sedan in which two young men were riding, skidded at the foot of the hill at Dwyer's Corners, crashed through the guard rail and wedged itself head on in a cluster of trees, the compact of which smashed in the front of the car, but luckily the occupants escaped with but slight injuries. The wreck which was removed on Thursday morning, caused a number of motorists and spectators to gather and many comments were heard of how lucky the occupants were to escape serious injury.

Mrs. William G. Walsh and daughters, Agnes and Phyllis, of Margaretville were afternoon visitors on Thursday among friends at West Shokan Heights.

Perch and rock bass are biting very freely. Nearly everyone visiting the fishing grounds returns well rewarded for their efforts.

Mrs. Nellie McNeil of Brooklyn, in company with several members of the family were local visitors on Decoration Day. The McNeil family formerly spent their summers here, having occupied the Hartenstein bungalow and Mrs. Watson Bishop's farm house, and in the days before the reservoir, spent several seasons in Augustus Jones's house near Crispell's grove.

Two sleek looking deer were seen to be enjoying the succulent clover in the Davis meadows on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McRoberts of New Jersey also Ralph McRoberts of Schenectady were home visitors on Decoration Day.

Stream Line Important

A stream line in airplanes is the fashioning of the covering of wood or metal about a part of a plane or machine which will offer less resistance to the air stream.

Famous Boat Trip

The Fidelity was the first steamboat to navigate the waters of the Arkansas river above Fort Smith. The first trip was made in 1828.

We are forgetting our ancient habits of tranquility and calm, says Blackwood's Magazine. We have set up for our worship the twin idols of speed and noise. We have de-throned literature and the decent arts of life, and put in their places the dangerous results of science misapplied. We have given to progress—always a foolish thing—a fresh interpretation. According to the new meaning of the word, progress consists of moving with insane rapidity from one place to another.

Man is insatiably curious. He delves deep into the earth seeking to add to his store of knowledge. He descends to the bottom of the sea to study the strange life that exists there. He peers through space toward the stars in an attempt to discover their mysteries. The incessant quest makes up the store of knowledge possessed by humankind. It accounts for man's progress and holds the secret of his continued development.

While speakers before the Association for the Advancement of Science are predicting the indefinite prolongation of life, Sir Arthur Keith, famous London chemist, says, if he had his way, he would time human existence to end at forty-five or fifty, says the Louisville Courier Journal. Yet there are philosophers who think it would be a happier solution to have it end about three.

Colonials Looked Terrible; Wetmore After New Team

Freddie Wetmore's Colonials made such a very poor showing at the last game Sunday in a doubleheader against the Havana Cubans, that the Poughkeepsie promoter declared that he was through with the club, and that a new nine would represent Kingston in the future. Wetmore stated that he would try to bring the D. & H. Generals here.

The Cubans ran away with the first game, 13 to 1, and were ahead 13 to 2 at the end of the fifth when the second game was called. A total of 31 hits were credited to the winners, while the Colonials made nine for their day's work.

New faces in the Colonial lineup failed to make the team any stronger than the nine that represented Kingston on Memorial Day. There is little to say in a favorable manner for a club that couldn't field or hit. Bud Culliton was on the mound in the first game and his lot was hard. Facing a heavy hitting club Bud needed support and he didn't get it. Bill Shay made three of the Colonials' five hits in this game.

In the second game Sank hurried for the local representatives and he received the same brand of non-support. This game lasted five innings which was plenty.

Bill Schwab played in the outfield for the Colonials.

The Cubans brought a real ball club here. One of their outstanding players was Sammy on First base.

Koenigs Score Over Rondouts

The Koenigs All-Stars married the Rondouts A. C. team to the West Van-Sike, who have a record of 10 wins and 10 losses. The Koenigs, taking the second of a two-game series.

Nick Huber, tossing them over for the Koenigs, allowed nine hits, while "Wally" Peters on the Rondouts mound was troubled for 15 batters. Williams and Sahlgren, Koenigs, and Sahlgren, Rondouts, were the only pitchers to get a double, the former a single, while Carter got a triple and two one-runners. The triple was hit in the ninth with one man on.

Williams did some outstanding work in the field for the Koenigs, making a neat catch that he turned into a double play. Spiegel featured in the Rondouts' outgarden.

Another Crown For Miss Wills

Paris, June 3 (AP)—Helen Wills again has demonstrated her right to sit on the throne as queen of the world's tennis courts.

The California girl won the women's singles championship of the French hard court tournament yesterday by defeating the No. 1 ranked player of France, Mme. Rene Mathieu, 6-2, 6-4, in the final round.

The American girl's victory not only gave her the French title for the second year in succession but showed at the same time that Miss Wills ranks in a class by herself among women tennis players.

Mathieu put up a plucky fight, but whenever there was need to apply pressure Miss Wills clearly demonstrated her superiority. She trailed, three to two in the first set and then ran out four games in a row to win.

In the second, Mme. Mathieu pulled even at four games all, only to see the American take the next two in easy fashion for set, match and championship.

Tagging Major League Bases

What with postponements and gaps in the schedule in the non-Sunday cities of Pennsylvania, the Sunday program in the major leagues yesterday was reduced to exactly one-half of the normal day's campaign. Both the Athletics and the Cardinals, the two league leaders, helped themselves by doing nothing at all, and the cause of the Pirates certainly was not injured by inactivity which prevailed in Pittsburgh.

Although George Plogras, aided by Lou Gehrig's twelfth home run, pitched the Yankees to their second straight decision over the White Sox by 6 to 1 at the Yankee Stadium, the Browns were noled out in Washington by 2 to 1. This defeat dropped the St. Louisans to a position five and one-half games behind the Athletics as the Yankees crept up to within seven and one-half contests of the leaders.

In defeating the White Sox, Plogras allowed but six hits. Kerr's single and Metzler's triple in the third saved Chicago from a shutout. Gehrig's homer with one on in the first helped to tear Young Ed Walsh loose from the mound, but both Hal McKinn and George Connolly, who followed, encountered mistreatment. Cedric Durst hammered one of McKinn's shots into the right field fence in the seventh with one on base, and Earl Combs drove in two more runs in the eighth with a single.

After trailing St. Louis by 1 to 0 for seven rounds, Washington tied the score against George Blevins in the eighth and then won out in the ninth on Joe Cronin's double and two sacrifices. Irvin Hadley gave the Browns only five hits and seldom was in danger after the first round. It was his first victory of the season against seven defeats.

Red Sox bats hammered a merry tune against the barriers at Braves Field yesterday at the expense of Messrs. Shaute and Ferrell of Cleveland, and Boston won by 12 to 3. Milton Gaston pitched for the Sox and received batting support amounting to thirteen hits, one of them a homer by Scarritt.

With rain in both St. Louis and Cincinnati, the National League program was confined to Wrigley Field where the Giants and the Cubs braved wintry blasts from Lake Michigan to amuse 37,000 Sabbath clients. Sheriff Blake plunged into a desperate duel with Larry Benton for six innings, but blew up in the sixth under the strain of a 0 to 0 score. The Giants put six hits together for four runs and won eventually by 4 to 1. Norman McMillan saved the men of McCarthy from a shutout by opening the fifth with a home run, one of the five hits-off Benton.

The victory gave the Giants ten out of their last eleven, and placed them three and one-half games from the top. It is important to note that the Cardinals and the Pirates have lost only two games fewer than the clan McGraw.

Symbols of the Taoist

Upon many Chinese panels are depicted the leading Taoist symbols. A crane soaring over a pine tree is emblematic of endurance and longevity. A deer indicates dignity and wealth, while the unicorn kills is the emblem of perfection that appears only at the birth of a virtuous ruler.

Exonated Substitutes

As a substitute for Japanese art in decorating boxes and other things, a gelatinous substance produced by some of the larger varieties of snails is now used. It is easy and gives a brilliant surface which hard. Only experts can tell it from the more costly oriental substitutes.

Tennis Classes Open at Y.W.C.A.

The Y. W. C. A. has been making plans for tennis instruction for both girls and women and will open its schedule this week in the gymnasium at 14 Henry street, which has been marked out as a tennis court for the summer season. Miss Herdman will be in charge of instruction and is anxious to find how many girls and women in the city are interested in playing and in learning the game. The following hours will be observed this week for the various groups and those who are not able to attend the meetings at the time scheduled are asked to get in touch with Miss Herdman (1911) to find out further plans:

Monday evening, 7-8 o'clock—Industrial Girls.

Tuesday evening, 7-8 o'clock—Business Girls, Beginners.

Tuesday evening, 8-9 o'clock—Business Girls, Advanced Players.

Thursday afternoon, 3-4 o'clock—Young Married Women.

Friday afternoon, 3:30-4:30 o'clock—High School Girls.

Saturday morning, 9-10 o'clock—Grade School Girls.

On Wednesday the Business Girls will hold a picnic at the home of Miss Ellen Van Slyke on Marius street. All girls who wish to attend are asked to sign up at the "Y" by Tuesday evening. Each girl will bring her own lunch and meet at the "Y" at 5:30—or at Miss Van Slyke's at 6 o'clock. It is hoped that a large number of girls will attend.

BRIGHAM A. C. BEATS TANNERSVILLE CLUB.

The Brigham A. C. went to Tannersville Sunday and defeated the club of that place, 7-4. "Flippo" Komasa had no trouble with the mountaineers after the third inning, in which they bunched two hits and an error for three of their runs. The Brighams scored one in the first and fourth innings and took the lead in the sixth with three additional runs. Their last two came in the ninth, when Tannersville got their final tally.

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Texas Alibi—King Zog would like to marry an American actress. He recently broke a seven-year engagement with a wealthy Albanian girl because he believed a western queen would be of greater assistance in his plans for conquering the country.

Los Angeles—Jack Dempsey and Louise Taylor are "the happiest couple in the world." The description was given by Mrs. Dempsey on Jack's arrival from New York.

Mexico City—The government intends to drill for oil within the National Cathedral. It is believed the Aztecs operated an oil well close to the site of the cathedral.

Constantinople—To counteract the disastrous effect of the substitution of Latin characters for Turkish script the government is granting a bonus to newspapers.

New York—Church "tramps," who change church affiliations for no better reason than special music, seasonal preachers or new buildings, annoy the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick. "They go to church as they go to the theatre," he said. "They are religious butterflies, flitting from flower to flower."

London—Ramsay MacDonald believes that clothes make the woman as well as the man. "The smartness of their clothes indicates a corresponding smartness of their minds," he said in a statement about the election.

Katowice, Poland—The newspaper Katolik Polski is being sued for libel because of a fiction story regarding the use of taxicab No. 4423 by spies for passing the Polish German frontier. The chauffeur of cab 4433 insists he has not been a spy.

Cape Town, South Africa—In an effort to prevent diamond smuggling, searchlights and X-ray machines are turned on men and women as they pass the customs.

Nation's Forests Ready For Tourists

As the long trail beckons to vacationing tourists they will find many of the comforts of home this year in the rugged wilderness of the national forests. Campers in Montana (above) have a stove to cook on instead of a hot of coals. The United States forest service helps in the creation of accommodations such as the Bruin Inn (left) in Colorado. Camp Alice (right) in North Carolina is operated under special permit of the forest service.

Market for Fruits
And Vegetables

New York, June 3 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets.)—The abundant supply of tomatoes received on the local wholesale market today changed hands readily with the market steady to firm. Price changes, however, were few and small since the close of last week. Offerings in carlots were received from Mississippi, Florida, Georgia, Texas and South Carolina. Sales on Mississippi fancy pack in crates of four three quart baskets were reported at $1.40-$1.65, occasionally as high as $1.75. Texas consignments packed in bags containing about 30 pounds realized $3.50-$4.50. Carriers of six four-quart baskets of the fancy pack from South Carolina and Georgia commanded $5-$5.50. Florida shipments ranged from $1.50-$5.

Supplies of Big Boston lettuce were liberal from New Jersey, but moderate from nearby gardens. Fancy large stock was eagerly sought, but inferior and small received scant attention. Crates of 24 heads from New Jersey peddled out at $1.50, rarely $1.75. Finest home-grown offerings worked out at $2-$2.50.

Receipts of strawberries were lighter. The condition of most of the supply was improved considerably. The price trend was upward. The demand was moderate. Good quality strawberries from New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware peddled out at 12-15c, occasionally 16-18c, a quart basket. Unattractive fruit sold at 7-10c and in a few instances even lower.

Arrivals of green peas from New Jersey were fairly liberal. Wholesale prices ranged widely due to the great variation in the quality. Much of the business was transacted at $1.50-$2 a bushel hamper. Some good to fancy large peas, however, brought $2.25-$2.75, occasionally as high as $3. Green peas were also available from California, Maryland and Virginia.

California cantaloupes were decidedly lower. Today's receipts filled 51 cars as compared with 65 cars received all of last week. Standard rates of 45 cantaloupes sold at $1.50-$3.50, principally $5-$5.25. The price of southern new crop potatoes was very wide. Fancy stock sold well at about unchanged figures, but off-grade sold slowly at lower prices. The best No. 1 cobbler in barrels commanded $4.25-$5, in a few instances $5.25 and rarely $5.50. Ordinary and poor brought $3.50-$4.

LAST NIGHT
on the RADIO

Reception all day and evening Sunday was, with the exception of occasional local interference and the garbling of WGY, perfect. Saturday evening reception was also good. Among the exceptionally good DX stations were KDKA, WLS, WGN and WMAQ.

The attractions of the greatest metropolis in the world will be broadcast over the nation Tuesday evening at 7:30 eastern daylight time, when Mayor James J. Walker of New York city, opens the Socio-land program with a brief address setting forth the recreational advantages of his city. The half-hour program devoted exclusively to New York city has been arranged in response to the interest aroused by the special series of seven sketches in which the governors of New England and New York state have made short addresses. Supplementing Mayor Walker's talk will follow a radio drama, "The Last Leaf," adapted from the familiar short story by O. Henry.

Thought for Today
